Italian broker Golinucci launches PI aggregator site

Italian broker Golinucci Assicurazioni has launched an online comparison site for professional indemnity insurance for the Italian market.

Launched at the recent Biba event in Manchester, the initiative follows the passing of a decree in September 2011 that made PI insurance for Italian professionals compulsory.

The decree must be implemented within one year, meaning that individuals have only a few months to comply before the September 2012 start date.

The online platform will allow professionals including architects, engineers and accountants to compare quotes from a number of different companies in a quick and concise way, the firm said.

In addition, the broker will give traditional support through talking to and advising the customer to help them select the best insurance option.

Law no. 148, which was passed on 14 September 2011, states that "to protect the customer the professional is obliged to take out adequate insurance for professional indemnity risks.

"The general conditions of insurance policies may be negotiated, in agreement with its members, the National Board of Professional Associations/Orders."

The main professional associations are estimated to have over one million members, including 150,000 architects, 110,000 surveyors, 228,000 engineers, 230 000 lawyers, 110 000 accountants and 80 000 doctors.
